The Rochester Public Library is said to have a two-page list of readings made in 1966. A later edition of the Naukam publication calls this cemetery the Power Cemetery which is situated as described only on County Rd. 41, not Town Line Rd. In a letter to the County Historian, Preston E. Pierce, dated Oct. 9, 1998, Elaine Brown stated that this cemetery does exist separately from the Power Cemetery. [Historian's Cemetery File.]

[18] A map sketched by Town Historian, Lewis F. Allen, 1939, indicates burial site in northwest corner of property near County Rd. #41. Map in County Historian's cemetery file. In a letter to Historian, Preston Pierce, dated Oct. 9, 1998, Elaine K. Brown stated her belief that stones were in the woods just south of the Lapham House. [County Historian's Cemetery File.]

[19] Ontario County Clerk. Incorporations. 1928. Book 6. pp. 102-105. It appears that the Certificate of Incorporation for "Salem Cemetery Association" was filed in error, then refiled.

[20] In a letter to Historian, Preston E. Pierce, dated Oct. 9, 1998, Elaine Brown indicated that two stones could be seen in the 1950's when the Thruway was built. [Historian's Cemetery File.]

[21] Naukam. p. 11. This is probably the cemetery at the Race Track. It appears on the 1904 Atlas of Ontario County. In a letter to the Historian, Preston E. Pierce, dated Oct. 9, 1998, Elaine Brown indicated that this cemetery was in the middle of the field when she was a child and had only 2 or 3 stones. [Historian's Cemetery File.]
Pierce, dated Oct. 9, 1998, Elaine Brown stated that her grandparents owned this farm from 1908-1933. She believes the University of Rochester did some testing on remains found at the time the racetrack was built. Brown indicates that Kasson Crooker, who lived in Bloomfield, took the stones. The stones were at the home of Beatrice Crooker in the 1950's. Brown states that Samuel Cooper was buried there as is his wife. [Historian's Cemetery File.]

[28] The Brown Cemetery sometimes listed on the south side of Kashong Rd. is the same as this Barnes/Brown. Old maps make it appear that Kashong Road was rerouted over the years so that as far back as 1852 and 1859 a cemetery appeared on the north side of the road.

[29] This is probably one cemetery more properly named for the Ringer family. Several members of the Clise family are buried here.

Mary's Cemetery of Geneva, New York, Inc." but it was never recorded, and probably was not approved by the Secretary of State.

[31] Naukam. p. 15. Records available at Geneva Historical Soc. Last grave 1909. Thirteen graves total. A research paper on this cemetery, written by a Geneva High School student in the early 1980's, is available at the Ontario County Historical Society in the Geneva volume of cemetery readings.

[32] Privately owned (by Eleanor Elz, 1999) and still in use.

[33] There is some question whether or not this cemetery is actually within the Town of Phelps. It borders Nicholson Cemetery. Readings will often be found under "Geneva" and the Town of Geneva considers it within the [34] Probably a duplicate listing of #72, Smith Cemetery which is approximately the same location.

[35] Ontario County Clerk. Incorporations. 1874. pp. 81-82. The incorporation states the name as the "Dwelle Cemetery Association" although that name has not been applied to the cemetery in modern times. It specifies that the cemetery is based upon a deed from Parly Gates and is located on Lot 49 in the Town of Gorham near a school, a description which fits Baldwin's Corners.

[36] This cemetery has been listed as Hawley, or Hawley-Taylor since a reading done in 1965. No members of the Hawley or Taylor families are buried here. The property belonged to Ethan Lord who lived nearby and is buried in the cemetery. The erroneous listing dates from at least 1965 when a local genealogist distributed a reading with the name Hawley-Taylor. For verification of the correct name see: Ontario County land records. [38] Ontario County Clerk. Incorporations. 1861. Book 1. pp. 43-44. The incorporation states that the Cemetery was located in School District 5 of the Town of Gorham, a description which fits Pickett Cemetery. It has not been known as Denham Cemetery in modern times.

[39] Ontario County Clerk. Incorporations. Book 1. 1869. p. 67-68; Ontario County land records, Liber 29, p. 263. In the deed for the cemetery Joseph Wood sold the land to James "McFarson" and John Goodwin, Jun., the trustees of school District No. #6 of the Town of Gorham. The 1874 Atlas of Ontario County, and the 1859 map of the county (located at RAIMS, and other places), both indicate that Reed's Corners was in District #8. However, McIntosh's 1876 History of Ontario County (p. 152) indicates that the first school in the area was on the same lot as the Congregational Church. The deed description within Lot #54 is undoubtedly Reed's Corners. Either the school district was renumbered or an error in numbering was made since District #6 was not on Lot #54.

[40] This cemetery has also been known as Washburn-Conklin Cemetery. Conklin Cemetery is sometimes listed separately. These listings are erroneous. See: Ontario County land records. Verification of the name appears in Ontario County land records. Liber 244, 1903. p. 118. Also: Gage, Floyd H. "The Washburn Cemetery History." 2000. Typescript in County Historian's cemetery file. See: Ontario County Clerk. Incorporations. Book 1. 1866. p.

[41] 1891 readings of this cemetery were reprinted in the Shortsville Enterprise, Jun 3 (p. 1), 10 (p. 2), 17 (p. 2), 24 (p. 1), 1921.

[42] May be the same as Algerine Street Cemetery below although description appears to make it too close to County Rd. 4 for it to be Algerine Street Cemetery. Stone may have been removed from Algerine Street Cemetery when it was obliterated sometime after 1915.

[43] Ontario County Clerk. Incorporations. 1890. Book 1. p. 341-342. The incorporation papers do not mention the particular plot of land but the name is simply Hopewell Cemetery Association.

[44] The visible stones are merely numbered. A listing of those buried in the Ontario County/Poor House Cemetery can be found at the county Health Facility, the County Archives (RAIMS), and at the County Historian's

[45] May be Estey cemetery located in 1998 with one visible stone (Belle C. Estey 1865-1905). Cemetery was south of house owned by Eoris Eldredge (1999) and labeled as M.S. Esty on 1874 county atlas. Does not appear to be close enough to County Rd. 4 to fit description of Estey Cemetery above. Close to Algerine Street according to 1915 deed, Ontario County RAIMS. Land Records. Liber 291. p. 522. Apr. 1, 1915. Mary G. Palmer to William H. Sheppard and Lillie. Part of Lot 64. Contains exception, a "small piece of ground lying in the southeast corner of that portion of the premises above described which lies west of the Highway, now [e]nclosed with a board fence, being 2 rods north and south and 1 1/2 rods east and west." Deed refers to bordering land of John Freshour. John, and later Freshours, owned the house next south of the cemetery shown on the 1874 atlas map.

[74] This cemetery incorporated as West Richmond Cemetery. Ontario County Clerk. Incorporations. Book 1. (1875) p. 83. The names on the 1875 incorporation papers are all listed as buried in what is now known as Purcell Cemetery. The incorporators met at the old Baptist Church "in the vicinity."

[75] On some sets of readings the Richmond Center Cemetery is also called Reed Cemetery. The readings carried the Reed name over from a single page of readings done at the same time which are really an extract from the readings of the Purcell/Curtiss Cemetery. [79] Ontario County Clerk. Incorporations. 1861. Book 1. pp. 42-43. The incorporation calls this the "Log Meeting House Cemetery" near Halls Corners, Town of Seneca, and specifies that it is situated on Lot 81 of the town. That description fits the location of the Little Church Cemetery. The 1859 map of the county, based upon the surveys of S. N. Beers, and published by A. D. Z. [84] Letter: Peter F. Blaisdell, Code Enforcement Officer, Town of South Bristol to Preston Pierce, Ontario County Historian, December 26, 1996. County Historian's cemetery file. Mr. Blaisdell indicated that the Allen Cemetery had been visited "within the last few months." Its location is listed as "unknown" in many references.

Historian, December 26, 1996. County Historian's cemetery files. Mr. Blaisdell suggests that this may be Gulick Cemetery. The names of two members of the Quayle family are included in readings of this cemetery in the County Historian's Office, however. Moreover, the same names appear on the lists for Gulick, McGreavy, and Frosttown Cemeteries. A reading taken in the 1930's, and deposited at the Rochester Public Library, calls Frosttown Cemetery "Gulick Gorge."

[90] Letter: Peter F. Blaisdell, Code Enforcement Officer, Town of South Bristol to Preston Pierce, Ontario County Historian, December 26, 1997. Mr. Blaisdell suggests that the Hill and Davis Hill cemeteries may be the same.

[91] Most likely, this is Frosttown/McGreavy Cemetery.

[92] This cemetery may exist along the long-abandoned stretch of Worden Hill Rd. or it may be confused with Ganyard Hill in Bristol. See correspondence of Norma Storrs Keating in County Historian's cemetery file.

Ontario County, New York Cemeteries

Compiled by Dr. Preston E. Pierce

Ontario County Historian

[95] See: J. Sheldon Fisher. 1992. Graves moved to Boughton Hill Cemetery. According to Fisher, several graves were left including those for Seneca Boughton, Mary Dickinson Parks, and other members of the Parks family. "All stone markers are missing except the monument with the Parks name on it."

[96] See: J. Sheldon Fisher. "Days of Victor's Past." The Daily Messenger. (Canandaigua, NY) Aug. 6, 1992. p. 301. The Fishers Abandoned Cemetery may be the same cemetery J. Sheldon Fisher calls the Fisher family cemetery in Fishers. He indicated that five burials from the "family cemetery" had been removed to Boughton Hill Cemetery in Fishers. Since Jabez, who built the house, and his wife, Jemima, and their children aren't found elsewhere they may be at this location.

[100] Letter: Elaine K. Brown to Preston Pierce, Ontario County Historian, 1996, County Historian's cemetery file. Mrs. Brown indicates that Thomas Lane, who moved away from Niagara-on-the-Lake, Ontario during War of 1813 is probably not buried in Lane Cemetery despite published information (See: Fisher article) and that both the stones of John Lloyd Lane and Sarah Lane were found being used as door steps.

[101] See: J. Sheldon Fisher. 1992.

Mrs. Elaine K. Brown, in a 1996 letter to County Historian, Preston Pierce, points out that Lucy Ketchum has a stone and is buried in Boughton Hill Cemetery just in front of her sister Jerusha Seymour. See: Letter, 1996, County Historian's cemetery file.

[104] Letter: Elaine K. Brown, to Preston Pierce, Ontario County Historian, 1996. County Historian's cemetery file. Mrs. Brown states that Abigail Boughton Smith, daughter of Hezekiah and sister of Jared, settled on the farm with husband Nicholas Smith. She found a coroner's report in Ontario County Archive stating that burial was made on the farm. None of Abigail's family is buried on Boughton Hill so they are probably in this location.

[105] See: J. Sheldon Fisher. 1992. which is questioned by researchers but is noted here because of media publication. See letter: Elaine K. Brown to Preston Pierce, Ontario County Historian, 1996. Mrs. Brown indicates that the Proprietor's Church Cemetery is between a small white house on Moore Ave. opposite the parking lot and the church site on the hill above. That was the old Kendall lot. The deed, a copy of which Mrs. Brown sent to Rose Fagan, Victor Town Historian, indicates the presence of the cemetery.
